WCPS Schools Make the Grade in U.S. News & World Report's Education Report—Congratulations!

Wayne County Public Schools had three schools recently receive “Silver” and “Bronze” medal designations in U.S. News & World Report’s “America’s Best High Schools” rankings. U.S. News & World Report in collaboration with School Evaluation Services -a K-12 education, data research, and analysis business run by Standard & Poor’s- analyzed academic and enrollment data from more than 21,000 public high schools to find the very best across the country. Top schools were placed into gold, silver, bronze, or honorable mention categories. Eastern Wayne High School was one of 11 North Carolina public high schools to receive a silver medal ranking. Goldsboro High School and Wayne Early/Middle College High School were two of 31 North Carolina public high schools to receive bronze medal designations. The three schools were among 44 public high schools statewide to have earned bronze, silver, or gold designations. Only two North Carolina school districts, Wake County with five schools and Surry County with four schools, had more high schools than Wayne County identified for gold, silver, or bronze awards. “We are very appreciative of U.S. News & World Report’s designations for these three schools in its rankings of ‘America’s Best High Schools.’ The schools are to be commended for their achievement,” states Dr. Steven Taylor, WCPS Superintendent. To be classified as one of America’s Best High Schools, judges looked at three performance indicators. The first indicator was how students performed in math and reading compared to their peers across the state. The second indicator factored in each school’s percentage of economically disadvantaged students to see if they were performing better than their statistical expectations. The third indicator considered college readiness based on AP test scores and International Baccalaureate test data. For more information, contact Ken Derksen at 919-705-6125.

Gov. Perdue establishes NC Complete County Committee for CENSUS 2010

As you may know, Governor Perdue signed Executive Order 33 establishing the North Carolina Complete Count Committee (NC CCC) to promote Census 2010 participation in our state. The NC CCC met last Friday at Shaw University in Raleigh. A new North Carolina 2010 Census website has also been released. The new site has information about the Census including how to apply for Census jobs, a calendar of Census events in the state, and a census blog. Browse the new NC Census website at - <http://2010census.nc.gov/>. There are two logos on the main page. Feel free to use them as links from your website to the NC Census site. If you have Census related activities in your area that you would like included on the NC Census calendar, please notify: Bob Coats (919) 807-4781 bob.coats@osbm.nc.gov

SOG: Coates Canons: 'Email as Public Record: Five Things You Should Know'

You probably already know that the definition of public records in our state law is extremely broad, and certainly includes electronic records like email. This means that email is subject to both the public access and records retention aspects of that law. Here’s a list of five other things you should know about email as a public record. Federal grant: Develop solutions to resolve police motor vehicle pursuits & minimizing potential for damage

The National Institute of Justice (NIJ) is the research, development, and evaluation agency of the U.S. Department of Justice (DOJ) and a component of the Office of Justice Programs (OJP). NIJ provides objective, independent, evidence-based knowledge and tools to enhance the administration of justice and public safety. NIJ solicits applications to inform its search for the knowledge and tools to guide policy and practice. NIJ is interested in applications for funding to develop solutions that can resolve police motor vehicle pursuits, while at the same time minimizing the potential for injury or damage to property. <http://www.ncjrs.gov/pdffiles1/nij/s1000923.pdf>

SOG Coates Canons: 'The ABCs of ABC Boards'

A $12,000 dinner for Mecklenburg ABC employees paid for by a liquor broker. A $280,000 salary for an ABC administrator in New Hanover County — finally disclosed after the ABC board first refused to release public information about salaries. A dispute over the location of an ABC store in Currituck County. Each of these issues has generated considerable local controversy — and statewide interest — in recent weeks, and each has prompted the affected boards of county commissioners to think about their role in the oversight of local alcoholic beverage control systems. This blog reviews the basics of the relationship between county commissioners and city councils and their local ABC boards. Performance Driven: New Vision for US Transportation Policy

National transportation policy has lost direction and a clear sense of purpose, threatening substantial costs to our collective prosperity, security, environment, and quality of life. The National Transportation Policy Project (NTPP) is recommending bold and comprehensive reform founded on a relatively simple proposition: U.S. transportation policy needs to be more performance-driven, more directly linked to a set of clearly articulated goals, and more accountable for results. <http://bipartisanpolicy.org/library/report/performance-driven-new-vision-us-transportation-policy>

Capital Budgeting and Finance: A Guide for Local Governments

This SOG book is a comprehensive guide for planning and financing capital projects. It clearly explains capital budgeting approaches and methods, especially for local jurisdictions under 200,000 in population, and it is a valuable resource for city and county managers, finance and budget officials, planning directors, public works administrators, and other officials involved in decisions to meet public infrastructure and facility needs. The 2009 federal stimulus package directed additional resources to local governments' infrastructure improvement, so local officials increasingly feel pressured to be ready for new projects. The capital planning process prepares for just that. White papers on innovation-based strategy

The Baton Rouge Area Chamber has published two white papers on the need to adopt an innovation-based strategy for economic development. Both papers focus on the needed components of a statewide strategy: research and commercialization, entrepreneurship and workforce development, risk capital, and statewide coordination. Study Finds Positive Link Between Neighborhood Walkability and Housing Values

More than just a pleasant amenity, the walkability of cities translates directly into increases in home values. Homes located in more walkable neighborhoods—those with a mix of common daily shopping and social destinations within a short distance—command a price premium over otherwise similar homes in less walkable areas. Houses with above-average levels of walkability command a premium of about $4,000 to $34,000 over houses with just average levels of walkability in the typical metropolitan areas studied.
